Lemon Grove Review

VOLUME 1 LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1949 NUMBER 25

Pertinent Paragraphs

With this issue of the Review, it becomes our sad and glad duty to say farewell to our many hundreds subscribers, readers and advertisers.

Sad because of the necessary change of associations and business friends — and glad because we realize that those to whom we entrust the future publication of the Review are fully competent, more experienced and therefore better fitted for the trust of recording the happenings of the best little town in the world.

We are also glad that Mr. and Mrs. John P. Pletchett, who will assume ownership February 18, see fit to continue our policy of keeping the Review strictly a Lemon Grove Newspaper. They intend to carry all the news that it is possible to get regarding Lemon Grove, its development, growth, advancement, and the activities of its citizens and organizations.

Our unusual policy of carrying no advertising competitive to Lemon Grove Business Concerns will also be continued.

Now, as to the folks themselves:

The new owners of the Lemon Grove Review, Mr. and Mrs J. P. Pletschet became permanent residents of the United States in 1947, when they came to Southern California on account of Mrs. Pletschet's health.

At that time they left their newspaper in Unity, Saskatchewan, Canada, to their son and daughter, Clifford and Irene.

Last fall Irene came to the United States with her parents, and will now assume the editorship of the Lemon Grove Review, and Clifford is alone in charge of the publication of their newspaper in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Pletschet also brought with them their youngest daughters, Jean and Fern, who will continue their education in the United States schools.

Mrs. Pletschet was born in Canada and her mother still resides in Canada. Mr. Pletschet is a native of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. He came to Canada in 1919. Mrs. Pletschet was engaged in newspaper work bebefore she met Mr. Pletschet and was editor of the first paper purchased by him in Canada. She was publisher of the paper while Mr. Pletschet was with the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Pletschet decided to make their home here. Having chosen Lemon Grove on account of its climate, they found here what they call "an ideal commercial and industrial center", and they feel that their paper will grow with the community.

As for us, we take this last opportunity to use an editorial column to sincerely thank everyone who has assisted in making the Review a successful home-town weekly newspaper. Readers, advertisers and contributors, you were swell to us!

VFW To Honor Gold Star Mother

The regular monthly meeting of the V. F. W. will be held on Tuesday February 22.

A very special honor is planned for Mrs. Abbie Brennan at their next meeting. She is a Gold Star Mother and will be presented with a life membership in their Eaton Rapids Home, with an impressive ceremony.

The V. F. W. Auxiliary is sponsoring a Buffet Dinner Sunday, February 27, in their hall on Imperial from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m.

First Breakfast Meet Declared Great Success

Twenty-six of Lemon Grove's most enterprising pried themselves out of 26 nice warm beds Tuesday morning to initiate the Businessmen's Breakfast Club. Was it worth it? Just ask'em!

Pineapple Juice, eggs sunnyside, hash-browned potatoes, butter, snails, applesauce and coffee make a good foundation to start the day on, don't you think? Mrs. Leah Donohue, who, with the able assistance of her daughter, provided this grand breakfast, is to be congratulated for the successful manner in which it was handled.

In line with a resolution previously passed, regarding programs for future meetings, Mr. Bob Murphy announced that next Tuesday morning the Club had its choice between an educational film and lecture by a representative from either the Irrigation District or the Light and Gas Company. Both programs are of timely interest to all residents of the Grove — or have you forgotten the water and gas shortage of recent months? The group decided on the Irrigation District's program for next Tuesday, February 22, and the Gas Company's program for the following week.

The By-Laws as revised by the committee of that name will come up for a vote by the group either the first or second meeting in March. A copy of these By-Laws will be sent to each member along with ample notice of the voting date. The officers and Board of Directors of the Businessmen's Association urgently request that all members study these Laws and be present at that time either to vote them into being or to have them modified to suit the majority of members and the purpose of the club.

Paul J. Duley, Secretary.

LET'S DISCUSS IT

by Mrs. Agnes Whitlock

Have you met Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fleming? They and their children Nancy, 8, and Ronnie, 5, live at 3528 Harris Street. Mr. Fleming is a carpenter, Mrs. Fleming (Vera) a housewife and clubwoman, both are very interested in the local civic achievements.

Have you heard of Winfield, Kansas? Whether you have or not, I think you'll enjoy this little story.

"Kansas has nostalgic memories for anyone who has ever lived there. The people who lived there during their youth still have that necessity for space and geometrically laid out streets, farms and highways.

"The geography of Kansas is an important factor. It is the center of the United States, both North and South as well as East and West — from the hills creased with swift deep rivers to flat plains underlaid with sheet water from the lazy wide Arkansas River, all covered with rich deep loams, sandy-red or black.

"Rich in color is the history of Kansas. It was first covered with deep bluegrass that Windfield Scott reported was 'as high as a buffalo's back.' The settlers from Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, and other rich farming states came to Eastern Kansas to farm. The cattle men came and crossed the Arkansas. They went on farther each year, but always drove the cattle back to the cattle markets in Wichita and in later years to Dodge City.

"Gradually the farms spread to western Kansas, but the custom of selling cattle in Dodge City, and Wichita, has stayed on.

"The deep ruts of the Chisholm Trail are still discernable, even without the limestone and copper markers erected by the Native Daughters.

"Cattle and farming are still a major source of income, but are being quickly overshadowed by the airplane factories, which have grown around Wichita. The war increased them, but in peace they have continued to grow.

"Salt mines at Hutchison, account for a great deal of the salt used in the United States. The block salt is found underground and is sawed as wood is sawed. It is fine, pure, and has more flavor than salt produced from sea water.

"Lead, zinc and coal are mined in the hills of southeast Kansas. Crude oil and natural gas wells are numerous and of fine quality. (I notice that part of the gas to be piped in the new lines to San Diego is to come from western Kansas.)

"For many years Kansas has been among the leaders in the educational field, with special interest in the 3 Rs, music and art.

"Our Town is a typical midwestern town, with wide red brick streets lined by elms. It is the county seat, with a limestone courthouse in a square block of green lawn. Adjoining the courthouse is a block of park, the scene of a memorial to numerous war dead.

"Main Street squarely intersects with 9th Avenue and is lined with brick and limestone business buildings and the Municipal Light, Water and Natural Gas plants. The sewers are city owned, too. Also city owned is the swimming pool and playground adjacent to the 10 acres of Island Park. Island Park has an open air bandstand, and a round topped Tabernacle that was built during the days of the Chataqua.

"There are two colleges; St. John's (Lutheran) and Southwestern (q. v.). Southwestern is noted for it's courses in art appreciation, and its musical organizations featuring an annual presentation of Mendolssohn's "Elijah," contributing to the cultural life of the city.

"Among the outstanding buildings are the Carnegie Library and the city and Catholic owned hospitals. A good bus system with a nickel fare — but who wants a bus, the taxi is only a dime.

"Winfield has a city manager who is a wizard at maintaining his town on a very small tax levy—. A good place to be from? Yes. Why didn't we stay there, then? The same reasons you had for leaving the place you came from. We were young, we thought young people should go from home and start for themselves. We had friends who had come to San Diego, and they said it was a fine place.

"We lived in San Diego for a year, but it was overcrowded. We longed for a little space and the rolling hills looked restful. Lemon Grove was indeed a small town then. We wanted a small friendly place in which to build a home and raise our family.

"It's growth never fails to astonish us and give us that thrill of pride in 'Our Town," which comes to all people who reminisce and say, "Why, I can remember when there was only a general store and a post office in Lemon Grove!"

SCHOOL NEWS

We are glad to have our teacher, Mrs. Mason, living out here with us now. She and Mr. Mason moved from San Diego. They bought a pretty new home and they are making a small ranch with all kinds of fruit trees. They like the country better than the city and think this the best place in the world to live.

Since Mrs. Mason has a new English bicycle, some of us are trying to get her to go riding with us when the weather gets nice.

Our pet hamster, Mrs. Pinkerton Pink Nose, raised a family of four cute little hamsters. We fed them fresh vegetables every day, and watched them grow. Hamsters need vegetables as much as we do to keep them healthy. We have one of the baby hamsters in our room. It is almost grown now. We take very good care of her and keep her home clean. She drinks lots of water. We hope Mrs. Pinkerton Pink Nose has some grandchildren before school closes this year.

School News

The recent March of Dimes campaign was very successful in the local school. The children turned in $312.74.

Friday evening, February 11, the seventh and eighth grades of the Lemon Grove School held a dance at the Forward Club house attended by approximately 150 girls and boys.

A record player furnished the music for the dance which gave the group two hours of enjoyment from 7:30 to 9:30.

Teachers who attended were Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Solleder, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Whalen, Mr. and Mrs Eldon Goodall, Mr. Butler, Mr. Covey and his daughter, Mr. Darroch, Mr. Lindsley Jr., and many of the parents.

The hall was gaily decorated with white streamers and red hearts.

The sixth grade enjoyed a trip to La Pressa Airport last Thursday. Bob Sanders, the attendant in charge, showed the children over the port, instructing them not to touch any propellers.

This trip tied in with their study of transportation. Lester McIntosh built a model plane, and the rest of the class built up a model airport, complete with landing strip, hangar, etc.

The sixth grade recently held an election of officers, with David McCoy elected president; Roger Conlee, vice president; June Brannon, secretary, and Barbara Balch, treasurer.

They have purchased a pair of hamsters named Pete and Repeat. They make good pets and the children learn to care for them.

Roy Maxted, Richard Denton and Lester McIntosh made some puppets to be used in a play this group will give later.

Robert Cooley is a new boy recently welcomed to the sixth grade.

We had a Valentine box in our room. Joan Skarda, Georgina Grove, and Kathleen Pfister brought cookies, candy and Kool-Aid and held a party for the class.

February 9 our class went to the Serra Museum. We left the school at 1:15 and went on a school bus. Mr. Brunner was our driver. First we went to see Father Serra's statue. It is where the first religious service was held in California. Near him is the big brick cross.

Across the road is a statue of an Indian. By this statue the grass is uneven because it is growing on top of the ruins of the first presidio.

Then we went up to the Museum and Mr. Reif told us many interesting things. Outside we saw an old stage coach that used to carry gold and people from San Diego to Julian. There are two Indian dugout boats.

Inside we saw pictures of San Diego long ago. We saw a bowl made of onyx brought from Mexico. It took a ton of onyx to make it.

There is lots of old furniture brought from Spain. One chest has a secret drawer. It is hundreds of years old.

We saw lots of old guns and muskets. One belonged to a conquistador of Cortez.

We saw Indian clothes, many kinds of Indian food, old dolls, sewing machines, talking machines, and pictures made of ferns, seeds, shells, and fish scales. Some pictures were made of human hair.

An old clock hangs on the wall It tells the time of the day, the day of the week, and the date of the month. It has wooden wheels and still runs.

We left on the bus and drove past a bell marked "El Camino Real," which means "The King's Highway." There is a bell to show where each of the 21 Missions are in California. We drove past the San Diego Mission. We hope to visit it next week.

All the boys and girls in Mrs. Krimsky's fourth grade went. We learned a lot and had a good time.

CAMP FIRE GIRL NEWS

"Make mine Democracy" is the title of the Birthday theme of the Campfire girls. One of the basic ideals is the use of democracy in the group, thru sharing work and play, making group decisions, giving service to others and co-operating between youth and adult.

In quoting from the Camp Fire girl we can sum it up by saying, Democracy is a way of life where the pronouns "you and I" are neither lost nor suppressed but have matured by positive experiences into the noble pronouns "we and us". We want each girl to feel she belongs, that she counts, has a share in determining where she shall go and what she shall do.

Each group starting with the Blue Birds are playing the game and will be going to interesting historical places around San Diego and reading stories about little girls from other countries.

Some of the groups are going to visit the houses of different nations in Balboa Park and learn some of the customs and native dress.

The O-ki-hi girls are planning such a trip in the near future—today they met at Linda Young's home and started on their Camp Fire aprons.

The Monterey Heights group elected new officers at their recent meeting on Monday at 4 P.M. The president is Beverly Burst, Vive-Pres. Elane Marshall, Sect. Joyce Thirkell, Treas. Loretta Bell. They are working on a play at present.

Idaka and O-ya-Kiva groups are working on the menus and program for their fathers and daughters banquet on Feb. 25 at the V.F.W. hall.

The Blue Bird group entertained their mothers with a Valentine tea on Monday last.

The Camp Fire leaders wish to thank Mrs. Juanita Thirkell of Monterey Heights for the fine work she did in helping with Blue Birds and Camp Fire and wish her and her family happiness in their new location at Guam.

Hall Filled For Benefit Luncheon

The Forward Club sponsored a luncheon at their club house Wednesday noon, Feb. 16th. Members began work about 9.30 arranging tables, chairs, decorations, etc. A commercial group from San Diego came and prepared the food, which was served by the club women. The building was taxed to capacity, about 175 ladies being served an excellent three course luncheon.

Mrs. Margaret Wier, in charge of arrangements, gave a short talk about the food served, and gave away several door prizes.

Many of the women stayed to play cards, Chinese checkers, etc. The luncheon was given as a benefit, greatly assisting the club in paying off their obligations for the sewer intallation.

Mrs. I. B. Burkett, ways and means chairman, worked tirelessly to make the affair a success, and deserves a vote of thanks from the group.

ANNIVERSARY OF MONTEREY HEIGHTS BIRTHDAY CLUB

February 14 was the first anniversary of the Birthday Club of Monterey Hights. This club consists of a group of neighbors who gather for this meeting about once a month, purely for social reasons. "They do nothing but enjoy themselves."

Monday night's meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. M. Tucker of 1670 Skyline Drive. The Club originated one year ago in the same home.

A potted plant was sent to one of the most active members, Mrs. Mack Graham of Colfax Drive. Mrs. Graham has been ill in the hospital.

After the evening's entertainment, cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

Those present were: Mmes. Roy Meador, A. G. Tsongas, D. H. Vogler, Edward Myers, Ben Vestal, J. White, Roy Wheeler, Lee Bowman, D. Bellows, G. Hewitt F. Rossa and W. Bice, a guest of Mrs. Tucker.

There will be a meeting and lecture at Mason's Feed Store, Lemon Grove, in early March. Exact date will appear in a later issue.

SHORT STORY

Nancy, Don't Fret

By ELLIS K. BALDWIN

I HAD just put little Caroline to bed, hoping she'd sleep through until morning when shuffling down the sidewalk came Gus Olsen. I saw him before my young doctor-husband did. Gus was the first half of a patent medicine testimonial before the great transformation. His face resembled a cathedral gargoyle. His stomach ailment was known all over town, still he swore he would never go to a doctor. "Not one of them would be able to help me." he boasted.

When Gus retired from the railroad he took up his post on his porch, hailing every passerby to discuss his symptoms.

Panicky, I realized if Charlie should prescribe something that didn't cure, Gus with his porch lectures would spoil the doctor's chances for building a practice.

3-Minute Fiction

"Charlie," I said breathlessly "I'll tell him you have an emergency. Go out and hitch up Dinah." I'd stopped counting the times Charlie harnessed the horse to roll out of the yard like he was headed for a fire. "It's exciting for the neighborhood kids," Charlie would chuckle. It didn't mean a thing. The doctor was just putting on an act. Half an hour later you'd hear the crunch of the wheels on the driveway.

Charlie was saying, "I'm fed up with whirlwind buggy rides. Besides, the neighbors are starting to wonder where I go."

GUS was walking slowly, hunched over, hand on his stomach. I found myself clinging to Charlie's hand like a drowning woman.

"Let go of me, darling," the doctor said almost angrily. "I must greet our new patient."

I whispered desperately. "Darling, you just can't face this old gossip."

Suddenly the doctor was calling out, "Good evening, Mr. Olsen. Won't you come in?"

It took Gus a long time to tell his story. I heard the doctor clear his throat a number of times while he let Gus recite his history. Then Charlie began using those long technical terms he'd been boning up on these nights when he held office hours and no one came in. "All of a sudden, I heard Gus shout angrily, "Listen here, Doc, you can't tell me that." Goose pimples popped out on my arms. Charlie couldn't afford to get Gus down on him.

Then Charlie's voice droned on seemingly unperturbed by Gus' shouting. From where I sat I couldn't make out what he was saying. It seemed hours before the office door swung open.

"You're kind of young," Gus was to have helped me. Figured you telling the doctor. "Nothing seems couldn't put me through any more agony but what you've just said has got me flabbergasted."

"You've got me flabbergasted," Gus said.

Gus moved off into the night. The doctor didn't say anything. I stood it as long as I could. "Charlie, what did you give him?"

"It's a tough case," the doctor grunted, employing the deep bass notes he was learning to use.

"Absolutely nothing. If you must know, I told him he was a hypochondriac. Told him there was absolutely nothing wrong with him but if he didn't stop glutting himself with all these patent medicines he shortly would turn into a medicine bottle."

BUT all that was years ago. Now the impatient honking of a motor horn brought me tobogganing back down the years. Out at the curb was Caroline, a grown woman now, ready to drive her father down to his office in the medical building. The office would be jammed because Gus Olsen, rocking steadily on his porch during the years, repeated proudly again and again to his passing friends, "I'm a hypochondriac, yes sir, a hypochondriac."

Invariably he'd add, "If you got any bad symptoms and you want to know quickly what they are, there's a young doctor down the street . . ."

Coffee, doughnuts, and soda pop were served during the evening.

ADULT EDUCATION CLASSES

A number of women have been making inquiries about a millinery class. Mr. John Davis, superintendent of the adult education dept. at Grossmont has been contacted, and he specifies that if as many as 15 persons are interested in a class, a teacher will be provided, if a suitable place for meetings is available.

The class in Ceramics and Textile Painting meet in the Congregational church basement at 10 a.m. A similar class meets in the basement of the Vista La Mesa Christian church each Tuesday at 6.00 p.m.

Courses are offered in this locality in Millinery, Copper Craft, Jewelry Designing and Workmanship. This class is becoming very popular. Women may design their own Jewelry, of several metals. Many have their own jewels they wish to make mountings for, and this class assists them to do so.

Many other courses are offered at Grossmont. Weaving is thaught there, but it could not be given in Lemon Grove, as the looms have to have a permanent place for storage. Typing, short hand, and many other courses are taught there, that could not be given in here.

Golden Circle Benefit Luncheon February 25

The Golden Circle Class of the Congregational Church is sponsoring a luncheon Friday, February 25, at 12:00 noon in their basement dining room. The proceeds will go toward the building fund of the new recreation center next door.

Plans are in the making for some afternoon entertainment, so to enjoy a good luncheon, you are asked to make reservations early with Mrs. L. F. Herder.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Mae Leverty of Los Angeles left Sunday, after spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Hans Ahrensberg, of Washington Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Montague of Los Angeles spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. J. E. Montague and his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Duley.

Incidents Bring Accidents

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

From the foregoing in last weeks article, it will be seen that many apparently trivial incidents in the earliest days of infant life may have a very profound bearing on the future of the individual with reference to action, reaction, and conduct.

Fears that are allowed to remain unneautralized, and wrong, or perverted desires, neither constructivly directed, nor wisely guided, become aggravated in intensity and multiplied as to numbers by the formation of habit.

We fail to comprehend or assess the value of many apparently trivial incidents that have much to do with the shaping of our lives. Man is a creature of habit from birth. The association of ideas suggests the practice of habits which become correlated and gather force through repetition until we seem to be creatures of impulse drawn continuously into the maelstrom of a disorderly procession of mental and physical complexes. The mind of man is too finite to draw a clear mental picture or to develop a composite photograph, representative of the coordinated whole of a single human being.

Dealing as we must, with the material aspect of man's life, bearing ever in mind, the inseparable physic factor, we can at best, only approximate a differentiation of habit.

To say that a habit is good or bad, is but to make an arbitrary classification. A habit that is destructive to the health of one individual may be helpful to another. Temperament is frequently the determining factor. A phlegmatic temperament might well be spurred into activities that would result in greater individual usefulness and more healthful pursuits while the same stimulus applied to one of a nervous, vital temperament might result in destructive reactions.

Thus the encouragement of the same habit in two different types of character could readily prove helpful to one and harmful to the other.

It may be a good or bad habit, depending entirely on the consequences of its application in the individual case. A system of vigorous physical exercises practiced systematically by a person of the decided muscular type is considered an excellent habit, yet the purely cerebral type who believes this to be a good habit to cultivate, frequently finds himself profoundly enervated if not actually prostrated by the effort.

Though the exercise habit is to be encouraged in all people, it can become either a good or bad habit from the standpoint of health, according to the manner in which it is practiced.

The list of habits that humans are capable of forming in the pursuit of pleasure, diversion, substitution, or physical and emotional gratification during the course of an ordinary lifetime is beyond the scope of practical classification in the available space for this column. We can only hope to stimulate the reader's thought along these lines.

Habits, as previously mentioned, may be called good or bad in relation to their constructive or destructive consequences. The gentler or moderately stimulating habits, especially those included in the emotionally affective states, may be considered innervating and constructive, though if carried to extremes they may have the opposite effect and become enervating.

The intense emotions, even though the result of devotion to a good cause, may have a very destructive influence.

Accustomed as we are to focus our attention on the larger and more outstanding events in our everyday lives, it is difficult to bring ourselves to a realization of the importance of apparently trivial conditions. But it takes just a small amount of sincere concentration to discover that, taken in the aggregate, it is the little things that leave the most profound impression, good or bad.

VISITORS IN PALM SPRINGS

The B. J. Leonesios spent the week end in Palm Springs visiting their mother, and brother Bill Leonesio, who is the Palm Springs Fire Chief and president of the Shriners.

Barbara and Linda Sue enjoyed the trip up there very much.

Barbara remained at her grandmother's with a promise of a bus ride home next week end.

HERE FROM NEW YORK

Miss Marjorie Jackson of Cooperstown, New York, is making an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Russell Ray of Palm Street.

The hero, endangering his own life by saving the girl from drowning, feels well paid for his efforts by her casual smile; the first-aider, who comforted and possibly saved the life of a seriously injured man, doesn't mind the scolding from his wife for being late for supper.

The insignificant corn on your little toe or the microscopical cavity on one of your molars with intense, stinging, stabbing and excruciating pain seem to drive you close to madess, yet there is only a slight deviation from the normal. Isn't it a fact that 'Great oaks from little acorns grow?'

In the next two issues of this paper we intend to show how acquired habits, good and wholesome as they may be, can backfire if common sense is cast aside.

The first article, dealing with sunbathing, will bring out the fact that the habit itself was directly responsible for an incident leading to a serious injury which for unexplained reasons did not terminate fatally.

In the second article we will cite a case where the adopted habit at first brought about a physical condition which, under normal care, could have been easily eliminated. But as a second habit was formed the damage to an internal organ became so extended that it could not be repaired and death ensued.
